

In Business

Helping people to start their own businesses

Lots of people with learning disabilities want to work.

It is sometimes hard for people with learning disabilities to find work when they want it.

We worked on a programme called In Business to look at how people with learning disabilities could set up their own businesses.

We ran workshops to help people think about their business ideas and how to make them work.

We have written lots of information to help people with learning disabilities think about and set up their own businesses.

For more information please get in touch with:
Keith Bates
kbates@learningdisabilities.org.uk